

Report on Opinion Editor Activities between August 2021 and July 2022

Tyler Prochazka

The opinion section of Basic Income News has made it a goal to spread out coverage more evenly around the world. Our goal is to distribute information more fairly to demonstrate a range of information from more parts of the world and a greater variety of opinions. This year, there has been a much higher frequency of guest contributors who have written into BIEN for the first time. In my role as opinion editor, I solicited opinions from authors in Singapore and Korea where important basic income discussions are taking place. Broadly, there has been an increase in translated news and opinion, which has improved accessibility to our content and should be a goal to continue to produce more translated content. For the next year, it would be ideal to see a regular columnist join the opinion section.
